WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Largest Wholesale and Retail Paper
House South of New York

The House of Andrews Has Made Its Reputation Through Honest Efforts and Honest Dealing

We Want Every Reader of The Washington Herald to Know
That We Can Supply All of
Their Paper and Stationery
Needs (Wholesale or Retail) at the Lowest Possible Prices.

Wholesale Departments

We sell practically every business house in Washington office supplies, stationery, wrapping papers, twine, card board, &c., as well as furnishing a large percentage of trade papers with materials.

We supply the different Government Departments with legal and official stationery and paper, and ship to branch offices of the National Government all over the country.

Almost without a single exception the entire printing trade, as well as practically every first-class printery in the South, depends on the house of Andrews for their printing supplies. Thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of printing supplies are shipped daily. The immensity of the R. P. Andrews printing trade shows that the firm has the confidence of the printers in this city, Southern and Southwestern States. They appreciate the advantage of dealing with a large house that can be thoroughly relied upon.

In our Cutting Department the best and most complete machinery for doing the work quickly and at the same time of a quality up to the high standard insisted upon by this firm is seen in operation under the supervision of the most expert of workmen. Nothing has been neglected that could facilitate the production of the very best material on the market.

Retail Departments

Our Retail Stationery Department, under the supervision of Mr. O. P. Merryman, presents another revelation in present-day efficiency of operation. This branch is one of the most completely stocked stationery stores in existence. It astounds one at first sight to learn that this is but a branch of a larger business and not a single enterprise operated independently. From the finest of linen and bond stationery to the lowest priced note paper, everything in this line is shown here in a wider assortment than can be found elsewhere in Washington. So widespread a respect is held for the scope of this branch of the R. P. Andrews Paper Co.'s organization that a well-known expression among active buyers of stationery and the like is, "You can find it at Andrews." Thus firmly is their reputation for handling the largest assortment of goods established in the minds of the trade and public.

Because this firm does a wholesale as well as retail business, the prices in its Stationery Department are found to be appreciably lower than are asked by other merchants equipped with less favorable facilities. Then, too, a wider range of selection is made possible by the greater variety of stock with which the Wholesale Department supplies this branch of its business.
